DEFENSE & SUSTAINMENT · WHERE AI HELPS

From today's problems to AI-native work

THE PROBLEMS TODAY

01

Equipment down, waiting on parts

Vehicles and units sit idle while teams chase parts across depots and suppliers, and nobody can say when they return.

02

Repairs that stall at the depot

Repair jobs wait on parts, people or approvals, and the hold-ups only show when a deadline is missed.

03

Contract reports built by hand

Deliverables are pieced together from many files and emails, and reviewer comments get lost along the way.

WHERE AI CAN HELP

01	Readiness at a glance	Show what is down, why and the likely return date, drawn from maintenance and parts records.
02	Parts and supplier watch	Warn teams early about late parts and suspect lots, and show which units they affect.
03	Depot repair tracking	Spot stalled repairs early and suggest the next step to get each one moving again.
04	Report drafting help	Draft contract deliverables from existing records for a person to check and approve.
05	Technician assistant	Let technicians find the right procedure and past fixes in your own approved manuals.

FOR INSPIRATION

AI-native ideas to get you thinking

Examples only, to show what AI-native work can look like. They are not part of the package scope or a promise of what we will build; your POC is agreed with you.

The morning readiness brief

TODAY

Managers call around depots and update a spreadsheet to know what is down.

AI-NATIVE

Each morning a brief could list units down, the reason, the part awaited and the likely return date.

Tracing a suspect parts lot

TODAY

Teams search paper and system records for days to find where a bad lot was fitted.

AI-NATIVE

A quick search could list every unit fitted with parts from a suspect lot, for engineers to confirm.

A first draft of the monthly report

TODAY

Staff spend days copying figures and notes from many files into a contract report.

AI-NATIVE

A first draft could be built from existing records, ready for a person to review, correct and release.
