PHARMACIES · WHERE AI HELPS

From today's problems to AI-native work

THE PROBLEMS TODAY

01

Out of stock, or stuck with expired stock

Popular medicines run out while slow lines expire on the shelf, costing sales and money written off.

02

Repeat prescriptions chased by hand

Staff phone doctors and customers about refills, and customers arrive to find their order is not ready.

03

Pharmacists buried in routine tasks

Phone calls, stock counts and paperwork take time away from checking prescriptions and advising customers.

WHERE AI CAN HELP

01	Stock and expiry forecasts	Forecast what is likely to sell each week and flag stock nearing expiry while there is time to act.
02	Refill reminders	Remind customers when a repeat medicine is due and start the refill request early, for a pharmacist to check.
03	Customer question assistant	Answer questions on opening hours, order status and availability by chat, and pass health questions to a pharmacist.
04	Smarter supplier ordering	Suggest daily orders from sales, stock and supplier delays, for a person to approve.
05	Multi-branch stock sharing	Spot where one branch has too much of a medicine another branch is short of.

FOR INSPIRATION

AI-native ideas to get you thinking

Examples only, to show what AI-native work can look like. They are not part of the package scope or a promise of what we will build; your POC is agreed with you.

The refill that is ready on time

TODAY

A customer comes in for a repeat medicine and waits while staff find out it was not ordered.

AI-NATIVE

The pharmacy could text the customer a few days ahead, request the repeat in time and confirm when it is ready.

Catching stock before it expires

TODAY

Staff find expired boxes during a quarterly shelf check and throw them away.

AI-NATIVE

A weekly list could flag lines nearing expiry, so the team could move them to a busier branch or return them in time.

Is my order ready?

TODAY

The phone rings all day with the same question about orders and opening hours.

AI-NATIVE

A chat assistant could answer order status and opening hours, leaving the pharmacist free for health advice.
